1. According to Social Democratic sources in the area, 2,000 textile workers from Chemnitz and 500 test weavers from Guben were deported to Russia on 5 November 1946. Deportation of women began at the same time. Some of these women were employees of the woven goods plant, Schneiderwerke, in Chemnitz.
2. A well-informed SED source believes that a large scale evacuation of German males, 18 to 35 years old, is planned for the near future. He estimates that 1,000 or more selected men will be taken to the USSR for political indoctrination, the youngest to remain there for four years, intermediate ages for three, and the oldest for two years.
